Opportunities to Invest in

Management, Models and Motivation

“The Business School at UCD provides the only HR specialization program in Colorado. The professors are knowledgeable, involved with the students and focused on providing real-world learning.”

—Hilarie Ryals, '07 MBA, Defined Contribution Administrator, Milliman, Inc.

At the turn of the century, more than $58 billion was spent on management development as an industry worldwide. The UC Denver Business School understands the need for strategic and creative managers. Students in the MS in Management program are uniquely prepared for success through coursework from accomplished and business-savvy professors with international reputations. Diverse in its academic offerings, students hone the critical skills needed to manage and lead the organizations.

The Challenge

America thrives when corporate leaders successfully implement the right business model with the right organizational structure and attract and reward the right people for competitive advantage.

Your investment in our management program, faculty and staff will help educate tomorrow's leaders to plan, organize, resource, lead, and direct organizations to best accomplish their goals.

The Program

Reputation and respect are two hallmarks of successful management. It's why we pride ourselves on a faculty composed of exceptional scholars whose expertise is known and valued worldwide. They regularly publish in prestigious journals and serve as officers of professional associations. Known throughout academia and in board rooms, our faculty routinely consult with Fortune 500 and Colorado-based corporations and leading government and non-profit agencies.

Our management degree programs are designed to provide students with the perspective and skills necessary to drive growth and lead change. Undergraduates develop a well-balanced and broad managerial perspective that includes finance, accounting and marketing. Master's students specialize in communication, entrepreneurship, innovation, globalization, human resources, leadership or strategy. The program takes great pride in its consultative relationship between entrepreneurial students and mentoring faculty.

The Investment from You

The number of Colorado business leaders included on distinguished lists from Forbes to Fortune continues to grow. Strategic gifts to the management program at UC Denver prepares the next generation of leaders in our state to join current leaders on those lists.

Your investment ensures that the next generation of Colorado business leaders is equipped to innovate in ways that improve the effectiveness and efficiency of their organizations. Opportunities for support include research and teaching endowments along with fellowships.
